WE COME

Welcome to the 97th edition of the Peace College Lotus. This year's theme was chosen as a representation of the times and of Peace students. As we get closer to the new millenium we begin to realize the importance of our actions in the whole scheme of things. What history are we making that future generations will learn about? Coupled with the fact that we are college students testing our independence as well as expanding our minds, what better opportunity is there to have the TIME OF YOUR LIFE.

Though Peace was not hit hard by Floyd, these pictures show the damage caused by the hurricane.

Hurricane Floyd slammed into the eastern Carolina coast on Sept. 15 leaving in his wake floods and devastation. Though many students waited out the storm at Peace, some went home to be with their families. Floyd directly affected at least one-third of the students, and Peace was right there to lend a helping hand. Some students lost everything. Public Speaking professor, Marina Barber, offered the keys to her home to one such student. And the kindness did not stop there. Student Health Services sent the "Good Stuff" that was leftover from orientation to flood victims, and the Student Development Office held a canned food drive. PSGA members volunteered at the local Food Bank, and members of the Peace Community helped raise over $2.2 million at the Hurricane Floyd Relief Telethon in Greenville. "It was an exciting time for Peace College to come together as a community to help out", PSGA President, Allison Siler said.

HURRICANE FLOYD

Hit with rain and winds, Peace suffered little damage compared to neighboring cities. Kinston (Pictured Far Above) was one city where people lost their homes to the floods.

CAMPUS

BEING A COLLEGE STUDENT ISN'T ALL ABOUT GETTING THE RIGHT GRADES. WHETHER YOU'RE A RESIDENT OR A COMMUTER YOU EXPERIENCE A VARIETY OF THINGS, BE IT A CLUB OR A SCHOOL PROGRAM. WE'VE DONE OUR BEST TO CAPTURE PEACE STUDENTS AS THEY EXPERIENCE LIFE ON CAMPUS.

FALL BREAK

This year's Fall Break was a much-needed vacation from the madness of schoolwork. Some students just lazed around the house, while some studious students chose to catch up on their school work. Hurricane Floyd was a major factor in the activities of students. Some went home to clean their houses, and others came back to school to make a community effort to help those in need by working at the Red Cross in Rocky Mount. No matter what went on, Fall Break was a relief everyone needed.

Where is he? This was the question of the Snight on Oct. 15 as 24 Peace students and two teachers huddled around a campfire trying their best to get warm.

The "he" being referred to was Allen, a friend of Mr. King's. Allen was supposed to have been following the two vans as they traveled to the camp site for the PSRA white water rafting trip in West Virginia, instead he got lost. The situation was corrected when Mr. King and Beth Hathcock drove all night to retrieve the tents and clothing Allen had with him.

Greg, the senior guide, gave a "what to do if..." speech, and they headed for the upper Gauley River. Classified as a 5 on the dangerous scale, 6 being impossible, the river gave the group a hard workout! It was exciting, scary and exhausting work for the students as they battled the fast-paced water and the enormous rocks that loomed around them! All survived the trip, though some did take a dip in the 50 degree water!

FALL COCKTAIL

The 1999 Masquerade Ball ended the activities for Fall Fest this year, but the dance had a different atmosphere than in years past. For the first time, the dance was held on campus.

A record number of people attended the cocktail this year. A tent was set up on front campus with a DJ and a checkerboard dance floor. There was plenty of dancing space, and despite the cold outside, the temperature under the tent was just right. Students were able to take their refreshments to tables and chairs, where they sat down to take a break from dancing to the music.

Director of Student Services, Ronnie Nolan, circulated through the crowd, taking snapshots with a digital camera. Ronnie later e-mailed the pictures to students by request and posted pictures on the bulletin board outside Student Services.

October 18 kicked off this year's annual Fall Fest. The first event of this fun-filled week was the hayride/cookout held at Shelly Bradsher's house. Towards the end of the night, a game of Food Twister was played between the classes. It came down to senior Allison Siler and first-year student Mandi Matthews. In the end youth prevailed over experience.

Thanks to the first-year and junior classes, Jello wrestling was added to Tuesday's schedule. Everyone's favorite match, by far, was between Carla Tyner and 3rd Ross RA, Audrey Warrenfeltz. Carla came from behind and dumped Audrey face first into the pool of Jello.

Wednesday was the Toga party with Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. The guys may have wrapped a sheet around themselves, but it was the women who ruled the dance floor!

The Pumpkin grind was the final event of Fall Fest leading up to the cocktail. The gym was full of carnival booths, dancing, a karaoke contest and a costume contest.

The 167 commuter students at Peace are easily recognized, they aren't wearing their pajamas. They're often seen hustling and bustling through the parking lot or studying between classes in Belk lounge. Wherever they are, whatever they're doing, whenever they are doing it, Commuter Student Association Chair Amber Sauer is trying to make sure they're an integral part of the Peace College community. With monthly meetings and CSA sponsored events, commuter students always feel at home.

FALL FAMILY WEEKENDS

In keeping with the time-honored traditions at Peace College, Family Weekend and Mother-Daughter Weekend were highlights of the fall season. Family Weekend was a chance for Peace students to reunite with their loved ones, for some had not seen their families since the beginning of the school year. Fun activities, such as touring the campus to see what students do day to day, were planned for the families. Many commented that their favorite event of the weekend was hearing the Embers sing on the front lawn. A good time was had by all, and Family Weekend was again a success.

Mother-Daughter Weekend was a special time in everyone's hearts. The weekend was a chance for Peace ladies to bond with their mothers while enjoying the sights and sounds that Peace College and Raleigh have to offer. Participants enjoyed a Mother-Daughter Look-A-Like Contest, brunch with President Bingham and a play, Adaptation. This bonding experience was an enjoyable one for both mother and daughter; memories were shared that will be treasured forever.

With the beginning of spring semester, Peace College students begin to look forward to the traditions of Father-Daughter Day and Little-Sister Weekend.

Father-Daughter Day began with a chapel service led by the Rev. Michael Cogdill, father of Joya Cogdill. Students and their fathers then had the opportunity to participate in the Blizzard of Fun games and watch a Pride basketball game. Fathers danced the night away with their daughters to culminate an end to another successful "Father's Day."

Little-Sister Weekend began with science. The biology department sponsored "scientific experiments," where participants enjoyed many activities, such as making slime. Students also enjoyed a picnic on the front lawn with their sisters, in which everyone enjoyed playing games. Many of the sisters looked forward to their first chance of the year to go swimming and to go to the slumber party, complete with movies and popcorn. The next morning, Chaplain Marnie Crumpler led Little-Sister Chapel. The little sisters left Peace tired, but with a college experience they'll always remember.

"It was wonderful, especially the waterballoon toss, three-legged race and the pool party," Catherine Muse said. "My little sisters had a great time, and I had fun too!"

Peace College has always maintained a strong desire to build a relationship with the community. This year students participated in numerous acts of kindness. Some women chose to help sort canned goods for the local food bank, while others volunteered their time to Habitat for Humanity. Early one Sunday morning, a large number of students packed onto a bus headed for Greenville, N.C. These students helped with the Hurricane Floyd Relief Telethon. Peace women have volunteered their time to many organizations to help make the community a better place for everyone.

Every summer Peace College students have the opportunities to experience other cultures. Some students choose to explore the Yucatan Peninsula in Mexico, others travel around Europe and go on mission trips with students from other colleges. Wherever they choose to go, they always return with wonderful memories of a great trip. Here are two students' accounts of their trips.

"On August 1, 1999, I went to Europe to study abroad at The Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria. I studied with world renowned artists, but I was able to 'soak up' a little of the European culture. Salzburg is home for many well known musicians, including Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. While there I was able to hear Mozart's Requiem in the largest church in Salzburg and concerts in the fortress (which was the center of the city). I also toured cities such as Vienna, Rome, Paris and Luzern."

-Vivian Adams

"This past summer I spent 16 days with Amy Minges, Jennifer Matthews, Tracey Bleau and Dr. Arrington traveling around the British Isles. We visited many exciting places such as the Blarney Castle, where we got to kiss the Blarney stone and were blessed with the gift of gab. We traveled from Ireland to Wales, then to Scotland, and then we worked our way through England. Throughout the trip we visited the homes of many famous British authors, such as William Shakespeare, Anne Hathaway and William Wordsworth."

The spring semester can seem long with endless amounts of tests, papers and projects. Many Peace College students look with anticipation towards the end of the tunnel: Spring Break. During the week of March 13, 2000, Peace ladies took time off to relax and have fun before the end of the school year. Popular places to visit included Walt Disney World, the mountains and the beach. Others chose to use the time off to work and earn money. Spring Break is also a good opportunity to line up summer jobs. School-work still beckoned for some girls as they tried catching up or working ahead on assignments. Quite a few people went home to spend time relaxing with their families. Despite the wide range of activities, Spring Break was a needed vacation.

For the children: this year's Spring Fling was held on April 15. The special guests were members of the Methodist Home for Children. Peace students volunteered to help set up and clean up, lead games, and to just make the day a memorable one for the children. Due to rain, the games were moved into the gym, but nothing could dampen the spirits of the participants. From the smiles on everyone's faces, it is safe to say that Spring Fling 2000 was a huge success.

The RedRose Ball took on a different spin this year as over 300 students and guests danced the night away at the Exploris Museum on Saturday, April 8. An annual event at Peace College for years, the Ball was highlighted this year with feather boas for all the ladies and black top hats for the gents. The dance floor was a huge map of the world in the center of the three-story museum. Balloon columns and table decorations added a touch of class to the evening as we "put on the ritz" at the Red Rose Ball!

IN THE WORDS OF MADONNA - "EXPRESS YOURSELF!" HERE AT PEACE, WOMEN ARE ENCOURAGED TO EXPRESS THEIR CREATIVE SIDES. THEATER, CHOIR, DANCE AND VISUAL ARTS ARE JUST A FEW OF THE DIFFERENT OUTLETS FOR STUDENTS TO CHANNEL THEIR CREATIVE ENERGY. THE OPPORTUNITIES FOR SELF-EXPRESSION ARE ALL AROUND THE PEACE CAMPUS.

This year's Peace College Dance Company performed at events such as Family Weekend and several home basketball games. The company's director, Tiffany Rhynard, brought a new mood to the company this year. Rhynard's energy and talent gave the women inspiration. In October, the women participated in a master hip-hop class that was directed by Christal Brown. The Dance Company named Allison Leggett, Mauri Lybrand and Lori Bowes as the company's Assistant Directors. The dance company performed their final pieces in the annual Spring Concert, which was held at the end of March. Company members choreographed their own dances to music of their choice. "Flashback," "Black Velvet" and "On My Knees" were just a few of the eleven pieces that were presented in the concert.

This year's piano performers were Vivian Adams and Amanda York. Vivian is a senior and will be moving on to UNC-Greensboro after graduation. She performed her senior recital on Valentine's Day, February 14. Amanda is a Junior this year and will continue at Peace next year. She performed her junior recital in April. These ladies have worked diligently this year and throughout their college career under the teaching of the piano professor, Dr. Kilburn. They performed various classical pieces, all without the aid of sheet music. This accomplishment takes great dedication. Amanda has said that she sometimes practices seven hours a day. Their hard work has paid off, leaving them excited for whatever the future holds. Vivian reflects on her years at Peace by saying, "Not only have I received piano instruction that has taken my technique and performance to new heights, but I have had the opportunity to work in a high-tech music lab. I learned how to record, edit, and burn my own CD's along with using Finale to write my own music. Peace's music department has made a lasting impression on me and I can only hope to find as good instruction as what I have received here."

CHAMBER SINGERS

As always, the Peace College Chamber Singers were a part of the tradition for the 1999-2000 season. Mr. Smith and the singers were kept busy with rehearsals, chapel performances and concerts. Members commented that it was a stressful year but also a lot of fun. The work was worth the effort, however, because the singers received rave reviews for their concerts. First-year student Michelle Turner commented, "It was really nice to hear the wonderful talents of girls that I live with." Not only that, but they also gained personal satisfaction at having accomplished what they set out to do.

BOTTOM RIGHT: The nymphs (Anna Halgren, Adrienne McDaniel, Allyson Rhodes, Sarah Heath) arrange a picnic as Ariel and Prospero look on.

Fairies, sailors and monsters came together on a magical island ruled by a conjuring Duke and his beautiful daughter in Peace College's fall production of William Shakespeare's play, The Tempest. The intriguing background, vivid lighting, wonderful costumes and brilliant acting brought the play from the early 1600s to present day under the direction of Dr. Kenny Gannon. Melissa Lee as Prospero portrayed the beauty of forgiveness in dealing with his brother, Alonso, played by Sondra Beeson. Prospero strives to create a happy, fulfilling life for his daughter, Miranda (Brittany Allen) when they are thrown out of Milan and his brother usurps the throne. Allen showed Miranda's naivete when she falls in love with Ferdinand (Erin Hustead), washed ashore by Prospero's magic. Offering comedic relief, the savage, deformed slave Claiban (Elizabeth Kieffer) grumbles about his chores from Prospero and later experiences intoxication for the first time with King Alonso's jester, Trinculo (Amanda Mayer), and the king's butler (Emily Feimster). While the king's brother Sebastian (Vadra Groce) and Prospero's brother, Antonio (Megan Brown) conspire to kill King Alonso, Gonzalo (Caroline Boney), a trusted councillor, thwarts their evil plan with the aid of Prospero's airy spirit slave, Ariel (Kristen Brackett). An Ariel with attitude, the magical creature often appears with other spirits (Anna Halgren, Adrienne McDaniel, Allyson Rhodes and Sarah Heath) to carry out Prospero's bidding. As the theater's opening play of the season, The Tempest enchanted audiences with humor and drama.

Set in 1968 at a game show called Adaptation, contestant Phil Benson is selected to take a crack at winning the game. The object of the game is to successfully adapt to life as he gets older and achieves "maturity points." The audience watches, in a nutshell, Phil's life. Phil begins the game by being born into an average, white, middle-class family. He then advances through the school-age years and then on to college where he learns how to act around girls and find his niche in life. Phil contracts a job in hotel management, marries and has a son of his own. He passes along the game board of life in hopes of winning, yet known only to the studio audience, he may declare himself the winner at any time. The play ends with the end of Phil's life, as he dies surrounded by his family. Director Kenny Gannon said, "It is not just a period play; the issues raised in Adaptation continue to be timely."

Peace College has the honor of being the first American Theatre Company to perform Polly Teale's play Jane Eyre. The play chronicles the life of Jane Eyre, a young woman who comes to age in Victorian England. While still a young girl, her parents die, leaving her to work as a servant for the strict Mrs. Reed and her mischievous son. Jane, longing to see the far away tropics with trees sagging with oranges, contains an energy inside her. She tries desperately to be liked, but is met with harshness and cruelty. Eventually she is sent to a boarding school where she learns to teach, yet retains her innate desire for more. Jane later receives a position from the burly Mr. Rochester to be the governess for his bright young ward, Adele. As she works in this strange yet beautiful manor, she falls in love with Rochester and intends to marry him. Her wedding day comes to an abrupt end however, when an impromptu visitor resurfaces from Rochester's past. She is taken in at the River's home and remains there to serve as the local school-teacher until St. John Rivers proposes marriage. Jane is now forced to choose between two men: the missionary St. John and the gruff Rochester. She is drawn by the true love in her soul to Rochester, but upon returning to him, finds him blind, living among the ruins of his home. She embraces him and his past, finding a way to mesh her Victorian lifestyle with her deep-rooted passion.

Painting, sewing, sweeping, running, cleaning and designing are just some of the duties of the theater crew. While the actors are learning their lines, the crew is busy with details that produce a successful performance. The Costume Shop Manager organizes the characters' costumes while the Stage Manager is Dr. Gannon's right-hand man, listening and obeying every command. Not all the action, however, takes place behind the curtain. Technical duties of lights and sound are operated in the booth overlooking the theater. And when the final curtain falls, the crew steps in to sweep the stage and clean the theater. Although unseen, the crew is vital to Peace College productions.

STUNT NIGHT

MELISSA LEE'S IMPERSONATION OF PRESIDENT BINGHAM CRACKED ME UP.

EMILY COSTA

The annual competition between the sister classes finally arrived in April. Hours of rehearsal produced two equally hilarious stunts by the Sophomore-Senior and First-Year-Junior classes. The two sister classes produced spin offs from the popular game-show, Who Wants to Be a Millionaire. Sophomores and Seniors, however, adapted the game show to incorporate life here at Peace, calling their stunt Who Wants to be Peace Graduate. The curtain opened at six o'clock with judges Dean Thurston, Ronnie Nolan, Becky Gosky and Marnie Crumpler watching from the audience. In the end, the First-Years and Juniors won the Stunt Night trophy that was last engraved in 1982. The trophy will remain in the Office of Student Services safely guarded by Ronnie Nolan until the next Stunt Night.

The Art and Design program at Peace College is one of its best kept secrets. Rooms 300 and 301 in Pressly is where Design, Drawing and Painting students spend hours going through a process of creating and recreating images -- and conditioning their leg muscles trying to get to the third floor. If one walks into Frazier, students in the new Graphic Design lab are busy learning different programs and practicing job skills by designing book or CD covers, posters or pamphlets, just to name a few. Another secret location on campus is the Photography lab hidden on the second floor of the Herman Student Center. Although students seem secluded in their working environments, their work is not hidden from view. Student exhibitions and portfolios reveal the many talents of Art and Design students and the programs that are expanding each year.

Put your walking shoes ladies, we're going on a field trip. Each year Peace College faculty members take groups of students on field trips to experience and learn from different resources - and possibly earn credit hours. In November, Dr. Bonner led Biology students on an all-day hike to explore the environment on Inspiration Trail in Umstead State Park. New York, however, was the popular choice in the spring semester. Students traveled with Dr. Gannon to view Broadway shows, including the premier of The Daily Show with Jon Stewart. English students shared Broadway with the Theatre Practicum during spring break, touring the city and seeing shows. Psychology majors, however, got a little taste of Cajun country when they travelled to New Orleans for a psychology convention. All in all, whether travelling by car, plane or van, students walked away with fond memories from their field trips.

COMPETITIVE

Peace College Athletics has certainly come a long way with a wonderful year of competition, but the best is yet to come. This year the athletic programs have enjoyed successes that have been unparalleled in the history of the athletic program, and they have built the foundation upon which great sports teams are built. If you were excited by this year's teams, just wait till next year!

The Peace Pride volleyball team began this season with a purpose. They were not expected to do well this year, with half of the team consisting of incoming players and two new coaches who brought with them many new coaching techniques. However, with the experience of the two seniors and the other players, the Pride worked hard to prove everyone wrong. All their hard work paid off when the team enjoyed it's first winning season in the history of the program with a record of 14 and 11. Some highlights of the season included a first place finish in the Bennett College Invitational and a second place finish in the Salem College Invitational, received by defeating "the almightly Meredith Angels." In the end, knocking Meredith off its pedestal gave the Pride volleyball team their greatest boost, and we hope it carries over for them in the next season. Way to go Pride!!

The Peace Pride basketball team began the new year with a bang, by improving quickness and teamwork. The 1999-2000 season started off slowly, but the women worked hard and found themselves beating opponents that they had lost games to in the past: Greensboro College, N.C. Wesleyan and Chowan College, which saw defeat for the first time this season. The team practiced six days a week, three hours a day, with the exception of game days. Before each game, the team congregated at Coach Christian Dysart's home for an energy giving meal. Co-captain Abby Smith said, "The meals at Coach's house were some of my favorite memories of being part of the team." Smith and Co-captain Brooke Lilley, both seniors, are the first Peace College basketball team members to remain with the team for four years. Coach Dysart and his team's efforts paid off, and they hope to continue this tradition of excellence.

This year's Peace Pride season came to a close Polly won more games than Nelson and Natalie Heath any other Peace College basketball team in history. The team had 10 wins during this year's season. The women returned from the Pride:

Christmas break early to begin practicing once again. First-year student, Jennifer McHan commented on their early arrival, "We were lucky to be able to come back early, giving us the opportunity to do numerous things that brought us together as a team." As the season came to a close Polly Nelson and Natalie Heath wrote a poem entitled "Just the Three of Us." The closing lines sum up the emotions of the women among the Pride:

"So don't you dare shed a tear, Or leave here thinking we might never be near. For if you look within your heart everything will be clear, That this basketball team will always be dear..."

Peace's Tennis Team has new faces, but it still has the same pride! Coach Katie Carpenter has served Peace as an assistant tennis professional since 1998, and now she brings her experience to Peace as the head coach. With Coach Carpenter's extensive knowledge and the skills, talent and dedication of our players, Peace's tennis team is outstanding. Beginning in February, the team competed around the state in NCAA Division III level competitions and the annual Ruth Hopkins Memorial Tournament in honor of Peace's former tennis coach and athletic director. Congratulations to the team for another outstanding season!

The 1999-2000 season proved to be very memorable for the Peace Pride softball team. This season was the second season for fast-pitch softball. And with two new coaches, Coach Charlie Dobbins and Assistant Coach Keri McGee, the team had a whole new game plan. The players worked hard, trying new positions until each one found her speciality. The players also had a mission -- to play a home game, something that had not been done at Peace since 1987. To accomplish their mission, the players and coaches spent countless hours working on the field. They shoveled tons of dirt and picked up rocks to prepare the field. They completed their mission, and on Sunday March 25 the Peace Pride played the Greensboro Pride at Giant's Field. At the end of regulation play, the score was tied, but the Peace Pride prevailed, winning the game.

The 1999-2000 Peace Pride softball team exceeded all expectations. In only their second season of NCAA Division III play, the Pride finished the season with six more wins than last season. Though the team was young, they came together and proved that they could win. With all the successes of this season, the team shows great promise for the future.

CHEERLEADING

The Peace College Cheerleading Team brought down the house during each home basketball game this season. After several years of not having a cheerleading team at Peace College, several members of the student body came together to establish a new spirited tradition. Members of the team spent many hours practicing prior to the basketball season and represented Peace College with great spirit and grace. The seven members were easily noticed in the crowd as they led the audience in captivating cheers while wearing their green and white cheerleading uniforms and shaking their pom-poms.

Julia Coulson, team captian, says, "Next year we hope to fill all 16 uniforms that we ordered and we hope to even go to a competition." The Team is looking forward to another great year with even more student involvement. The Peace College Cheerleaders made a significant impact on the Peace College Athletic Program during this year and we look forward to many more years of talented athletic competition supported by our cheerleaders.

At the end of the athletic seasons, Peace College recognizes all of its dedicated athletes at its annual athletic banquet. It is at this time that each team is congratulated on all of the accomplishments that it received during the season. Each athletic team presented two awards -- Most Valuable Player and Most Improved Player. The awards went to the following: MVP volleyball and basketball, Heather Daniels; MIP volleyball, Maria Foster; MIP basketball, Natalie Heath; MVP softball, Maria Wexler; MIP softball, Amber Blankenship; MVP tennis, Polly Nelson; and MIP tennis, Kelly Payne.

Dean Thurston presented the Frazier Cup, the most prestigious award a Peace College athlete can receive. The Frazier Cup is given to the athlete who "must epitomize the term 'student athlete.'" Christiana Hobgood received this year's Frazier Cup.

ACADEMIC

ALTHOUGH PEACE IS A PLACE WHERE SPECIAL MEMORIES ARE MADE AND LIFELONG FRIENDSHIPS ARE FOUND, IT IS FIRST AND FOREMOST A PLACE FOR WOMEN TO GAIN AN ADVANTAGE IN EDUCATION. WITH HIGH LEVELS OF MOTIVATION AND POTENTIAL, PEACE GIVES WOMEN THE ADVANTAGES THAT WILL ALLOW THEM TO SUCCEED IN THE WORLD.

This year's Experiencing God at Peace Week was filled with activities to promote spiritual well-being. Every morning there was a prayer service. The night activities kicked-off with PSCA on Monday night where faculty members shared what God has been doing in their lives. Then on Tuesday night there was a vesper service where a band from NC State's Campus Crusades came and filled the chapel with Christian songs. Wednesday was a treat when students provided their favorite staff member with free lunch tickets for a day. Wednesday night the campus got sporty when students went to the Ice-house for a game of broomball. For Thursday chapel, Rev. Robert Austell entertained the first-year students. On Thursday night there was a mixer in Belk Courtyard where everyone danced and had a good time. "Thank God It's Friday" was also a success. There were games on the front campus. A huge slide was a big hit with everyone and so was the hot air balloon ride. In the end, everyone had a great time at Experiencing God at Peace Week.

A little before midnight on Monday January 24, Peace College students could be seen throwing snowballs, making snowangles and building snowmen or snowwomen all around campus. Little did they know that they would wake up the next morning to one of the largest snowfalls in Raleigh history -- 22 inches of snow that would cancel or delay school for the rest of the week.

"I thought it was very enjoyable," Brooke Braswell said. "I felt like a kid again."

Before long, cabin fever set in. Students kept themselves busy watching movies, playing board games and trying to figure out exactly how to safely make it off campus. Students were seen shoveling snow out from behind their cars and off their windows.

Though most would say that it was fun while it lasted, students and faculty were ready to see the snow melt so that things could get back to normal.

As students arrived on campus for the beginning of another exciting year of studies, they couldn't help but notice something a little odd...a new building. At least it was the start of a new academic building that would eventually double the classroom space on campus and provide them with a wealth of new academic and social resources. Throughout this year students have been awakened daily by the sounds of heavy construction taking place right outside their windows. Yes, we all complained about the noise and the "long" walk around the construction site, but now, in the end, our campus is seeing the rewards of all those hardtimes.

Thanks to the numerous alums and friends of the college, we now have a state of the art academic building that would rival the facilities offered at any institution across the country. Indeed, we are equipped with the best offered and we are proud to welcome this new building to our Peace College community. As of print time for this book, the name of the new building is a well kept secret on campus, but our sources tell us the building is named after a Peace alumna from the class of 1900. That's right, one hundred years after her graduation from Peace, her daughter and son-in-law, Mary Lore and Harry Brown, have named a building in her memory. We hope you enjoy the "Mary Lore Flowe Academic Building."

RIGHT: Consistent with the campus, construction workers lay down a brick walkway around the academic building. BELOW: Early in the fall semester, the frame for the new building went up and we could finally see what a huge impact this building would have on our campus.

TOP LEFT: Construction workers were up bright and early every morning in order to make sure the new building was completed on time. We will all remember the sounds of that horn blowing as the machinery took workers to the roof of the building. ABOVE: Once we only had the drawing of the site, now a worker puts the finishing touches on the front window. LEFT: After months of anticipation the new Mary Lore Flowe Academic building is complete.

For many Peace students, Montreat is a yearly tradition. Students travel to the mountains to spend a weekend getting to know their fellow students and meeting some new friends from the surrounding colleges. Marnie Crumpler led several group meetings, which were like Bible studies, at this year's Montreat. Perhaps the most memorable event this year was the barn dance. Students had a lot of fun line-dancing the night away. On Sunday, the students all gathered for a morning worship service. Everyone had a great time, and most left with a few more friends than they had before they went.

I HAD A FUN TIME GETTING TO KNOW ALL THE PEACE GIRLS AND HANGING OUT.

Each spring, Peace College recognizes those students that have received academic achievements during the year. The Awards Convocation is also a time to recognize those students who receive National Collegiate Minority Leadership Awards and those who are among the National Dean's List and Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. At this year's convocation, Dr. Bes Spangler was honored for her work with the college's honor societies. The Awards Convocation just shows that hard work does pay off.

AWARDS CONVOCATION

In keeping with the time-honored traditions at Peace College, graduates receiving their associate degrees wore long white dresses and carried a bouquet of red roses. Although the threat of rain had subsided, the 90 degree heat was almost unbearable. Fortunately, Emily Feimster gave an amazing speech that distracted the audience from the intense temperature. After awarding the degrees, graduates continue the tradition by gathering around the fountain to sing the Peace Alma Mater and then throw a rose from their bouquet into the fountain.

Although the intense heat hovered over the crowd on Saturday, graduates were eager to walk across the stage. Mohana Rajakumar spoke for the senior class saying she hoped to see the women in her class be prominent figures in society rather than blend in with mainstream society. Fortunately, the commencement speaker was a perfect example. Dr. Victoria Fanchetti Haynes is the first woman to serve as President of the Research Triangle Institute. After hearing the inspiring words from Mohana and Dr. Haynes, graduates paved the way to their future by receiving their degrees. Peace faculty and students thank the class of 2000 for all of its hard work and effort from the past four years. Congratulations and good luck!

CLOSING

Cover design by Audrey Warrenfeltz

As we look back at this past year, we realize that the 1999-2000 academic year was full of exciting and memorable milestones. Never before has Peace College seen such rewarding change -- a new building, outstanding athletic teams, great improvements on the campus and let's not forget Mother Nature's twists of fate. As the yearbook staff, we hope that we have been able to stop time for a few moments so you will look back on these times and smile. Because "For what it's worth, it was worth all the while. It's something unprecipitated but in the end it's right. I hope you had the time of your life." - Green Day
